ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH, WALNUT CREEK | JANUARY/FEBRUARY 2022

A Message From The Reverend Krista Fregoso

Well, here's to another year for the record books. I am ready to be done with the darkness and isolation that has come with this pandemic. Really, enough already! When will it end and we can start living our lives again? We've been pretty patient, wouldn't you say? And for soooooo long.

Even though the 12 days of Christmas are coming to a close, I'm holding onto the message behind one of my favorite Advent hymns as a promise for this new year.

*O Come, O Come, Emmanuel,
and ransom captive Israel,
that mourns in lonely exile here
until the Son of God appear.
Rejoice! Rejoice!
Emmanuel shall come to thee,
O Israel*

It is a promise that God will be and is with us. The light will come and scatter throughout even the darkest corners of our world. Rejoice! God will come. Love will win over fear, pain, and death.

Even in the midst of the longest and darkest days, even in the midst of another variant of COVID the light will come. So rejoice, prepare your hearts, and stand firm in courage and faith that Emmanuel shall come.

A Message From The Reverend Lynne Sharp

Nowadays we seem to have a natural aversion to silence—we want to fill it with busyness and sound—we have our favorite radio station, Alexa, or playlist queued up at home, in the car, and while working and doing errands. We live in a part of the world where it is hard to find silence unless we leave the city. Yet my spirit yearns for those frosty nights when the air is filled only with the sounds of nature and the heartbeat of God.

Still, it is in the quiet moments that God speaks to our hearts and souls; whispering words of encouragement, condemnation, inspiration, sadness, joy, plans for the future, reconciliation, healing, and hope. How can we follow God's plan if we never hear the whisper, or feel the nudge, or spend intentional time in silence and prayer for God to speak, or the Holy Spirit to inspire and guide, or Jesus to nudge and encourage us?

During COVID I forgot that I used to enjoy a 24-hour silent retreat once a month—away from the phone and email—sometimes at a Retreat Center—sometimes on a hike—sometimes in the peace of my home ignoring dust bunnies, dishes, and laundry. I was reminded of this a few weeks ago when I took a 20-mile damp and chilly hike around the Bay and across the Golden Gate Bridge. I prayed for people near and dear, and strangers far away who have requested prayer. I spent much of the time in silence, just waiting, watching, and listening.

For God alone my soul in silence waits. ~Psalm 62:5

This year I invite you into a year of silence by encouraging you to add a time of silence to your daily practice. It could be five minutes of meditating on the Scripture of the day, or five minutes after your night prayers to open your heart to God's response, maybe five minutes when you wake to hear the voice of the Holy One. How might you find ways to encounter the still small voice that dwells within you?

May the peace of God, which passes all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God throughout the year to come.

Pilgrimage to the Holy Land September 15-26, 2022

The Rev. Lynne is leading a group of Pilgrims to the Holy Land and invites you to consider if this is the year you will walk in the footsteps of Jesus' birth, life, ministry and resurrection. We'll stay in comfortable guest houses, eat amazing meals, and visit Shepherd's Field, Bethlehem, Nazareth, the Holy Sepulcher, the Sea of Galilee, and much more. Total cost for this 12-day Pilgrimage is $2410 (airfare not included), double occupancy. To register or learn more, contact The Rev. Lynne at (925) 934-2324 or info@stpaulswc.org.

Musical Notes

By ERIC NEWELL, DIRECTOR OF MUSIC

What a joy it is to be with you, celebrating the light of this season which seems to be ‘in the air’ a bit more than last year. Walking around downtown Walnut Creek and Santa Cruz, I seem to see a few more strung lights out at night, hear more laughter, and when sitting down in a restaurant, can see friends tearfully reuniting! In this wonderful church community, too, I consider it an honor to bear witness to in-person dynamic celebrations and conversations each and every week.

But we’re not fully back in the swing of things as in 2019—and there is still no definitive end in sight in many ways. I’m still daydreaming of the Sunday when our choir has masks fully off, singing unabashedly, and no one is worried about the health and safety of their loved ones.

In moments where this sort of thought is at the front of my mind, I try to remember that God can always be found in music being made—even when we’re masked, distanced, or live-streamed. Using our time, each one of us, just to listen to something which brings us joy or hope or peace—this act is a prayer in its own way, and I hope you’ll join me in doing so when feeling doubtful or despondent this season. And if you’re curious—for me, YouTube videos from the 1990s of King’s College, Cambridge, singing carols as part of their own Lessons and Carols service, are what send shivers down my arms and remind me of the infinite beauty which is being made now and is still to be made in days and years to come.

The Thursday Afternoon Bible Study Group

By BARBARA BOTTOMLEY and JESSICA BEERBAUM

In March 2020, at the beginning of the shelter-in-place, The Rev. Laurie Moyer, St. Paul’s interim Associate Rector, offered a Bible Study experience via Zoom to help ease our way into living with the pandemic.

At the first meeting, two people joined Rev. Laurie. Today, we enjoy a dedicated group of about 12 to 15 members.

There are elements to our group that make the experience unique. The initial study format—which we mostly still follow—is to consider the passages for the upcoming Sunday, per the Revised Common Lectionary.

Just a few weeks after the group started, art was added, almost by accident. Jessica realized that there was a famous classical painting that went with the gospel passage, and sent it to Rev. Laurie, who said, “Let’s share the art with everyone.”

Concert Reviews

By DEBORAH WEBSTER,
CONCERT SERIES PRODUCTION MANAGER

On a crisp autumn evening in November, we were treated to a stunningly beautiful performance by Heeguen Song on violin and Peter Myers on cello. In their first-ever performance together, they presented a stellar program of music that spoke directly to the soul, their instruments deftly entangling and luring the spirit with dancing tones and rhythms.

We were drawn into the program with the delightful energy and playfulness of Beethoven's Duo for Violin and Cello in C Major WoO 27. Our performers then presented a beautiful collage of pieces that flowed so gracefully from one to the next, including Varsha for Solo Cello by Reena Esmail, Adagio from Sonata No.1 by J.S. Bach, and Eight Pieces for Violin and Cello, Op. 39 by Reinhold Gliere. You might have assumed they were written together by the same composer if you didn't know otherwise, the flow from one to another being superb, tantalizing, and beautiful. After intermission, our performers presented Duo for Violin and Cello Op. 7 by Zoltan Kodaly, which had contemporary and even folksy themes woven through this bolstering and robust musical masterpiece. All throughout, our performers indulged us in absolute clarity and intense beauty from the interplay of their two instruments, as they presented such a delightful program with superb virtuosity and expression. What an incredible experience. What a night!

An equally amazing concert was our December performance by renowned harpist Anna Maria Mendieta. What is it about harp music that is so magical? It fills the room with vivid yet gentle colors. It whispers into our ears like the voices of angels, calling and coaxing us into a state of peacefulness. Ms. Mendieta did just that, as she played with grace and poise. The program was dedicated to Christmas music, both sacred and classical, opening with Carol of the Bells, What Child is This, Coventry Carol, and many others. In our Season of Anticipation, this concert was a gift, a perfect enhancement in our awaiting the promise of Jesus' birth.

172nd Convention of the Episcopal Diocese of California

By PHIL WEBSTER

The founding Episcopal Diocese in California encompassed all of the state. Today the Diocese of California comprises Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo, and part of Santa Clara Counties.

Resolutions

One of the main functions of the Diocesan Convention is to approve and pass resolutions that may be submitted to General Convention, to be held July 7 to 14, 2022 in Baltimore, Maryland. Ten resolutions were presented, seven were approved. The Committee on Resolutions will determine which of these seven resolutions (up to five) will be submitted for General Convention's consideration.

Budget

The approved budget for 2022 was $4.4 million.

Additional Convention Actions

In addition to the election of officers, there was also a Consent Calendar of minor issues which was approved. Also, adjustments and updates are continually being made to our Diocesan Canons.

Seventy Episcopal churches in our diocese were represented at the 172nd convention in October 2021, all on Zoom. Bishop Marc went to extensive efforts to make sure each delegate could vote on the issues live and online.

One delegate represented St. Paul's this year, leaving three of our seats vacant. If you are interested in becoming a delegate, seek out St. Paul's Nominating Committee and ask to be considered. Delegates are encouraged to attend our local Deanery meetings, held approximately four times a year. The first year, nominated delegates act as alternates in case of vacancies. In year two, they are primary voting delegates. Delegates learn about our Diocese; the work of the Bishop and the team of people who aid him; the many Diocesan committees, efforts, and concerns; the rules that each church must follow; the budget of the Diocese; and the previous year's successes and failures. The Diocese is supported by each church's diocesan assessment. You will also learn a little about all the other churches in our Diocese.

This is really the meat on the bones that makes the body of our church what it is. Talk to any Vestry member about participating. It is a rich and rewarding experience that I highly recommend.

For more information, including a brief description of the resolutions and applicable links, visit St. Paul's website at stpaulswc.org and click on "News and Events."

The Joys of Intergenerational Worship

By MAUREEN HORTON

Seven years ago I attended the Episcopal General Convention in Salt Lake City. I found the convention passionate, productive, and enlightening. The worship services were held in the convention hall, the “altar” was on the stage, and services were powerful and traditional, as well as contemporary. There was a soft space available below the convention stage for children and teenagers. The children were joyful and inquisitive and at home worshipping with the thousands in this ordinary space.

After all, they too are the body of Christ.

This brings me to Sunday, December 5, 2021. St. Paul’s held an intergenerational service (now the first Sunday of every month) that included twins (photo right) Sam and Henry Desautels (ages 9) reading the Gospel and brother James (7) lighting the Advent candle. The soft space was occupied by children and their parents. They rustled around, happy and content. When the offering was collected, Cleo Lagrone (2) decided to explore the space around the altar. She found the step stools and knew from last month’s service that they were meant for her. As the clergy set the table, she quietly watched. Other children declined the invitation to join, but Cleo remained and it doesn’t end there. She received communion at the rail with an adult parishioner and stayed. When it was time to process out, her sister, four-year-old Attie (4), wanted to participate. But the photo shows who led the clergy procession—that’s right, little Miss Cleo!

The Desautels children

If we want our children to have faith, we must welcome them into our worship space with open hearts and open arms.

Who doesn't appreciate a good book recommendation? And so, the Epistle Team asked,

What's on Your Nightstand?

Jim Bell

Serpentine by John Kellerman

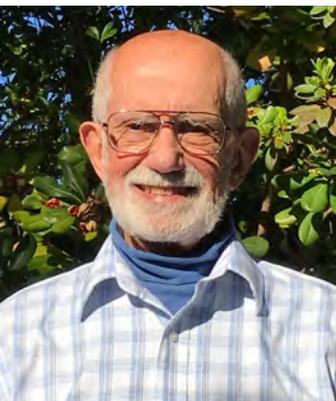

I chose this book because I've read several of Kellerman's books. The stories are compelling and so well written I find them engrossing. Alex Delaware, a psychologist, became involved in a 36-year-old unsolved murder mystery to provide insights to Lt. Milo Sturgis of the L.A. police department. Sturgis is pressured to find the mother of a wealthy woman, a mother she never knew. Some think the mother died in a car crash... but did she?

Emily Hopkins

The Dalai Lama's Cat by David Michie

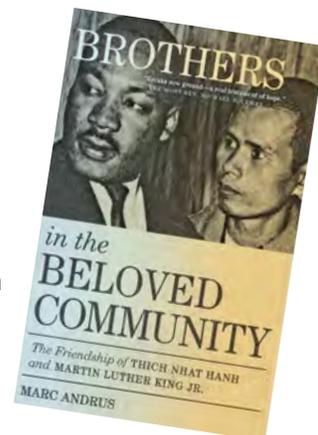

This book was recommended to me by my friend in Germany who has two cats (I have one, at present). Anyone who likes cats will enjoy this book. Even those who don't care for cats may enjoy the insights from Buddhism on how to find happiness and meaning in our busy lives and materialistic world, or guessing who are the featured celebrities. As told by a tiny insider.

Brothers in the Beloved Community: The Friendship of Thich Nhat Hanh and Martin Luther King Jr. by Marc Andrus (The Rt. Rev. Dr. Marc Handley Andrus, Bishop of California)

When this book first came to my attention, its vision interested me very much, so much so that I immediately ordered a pre-publication copy. Bishop Andrus writes the never-before-told story of the friendship between Martin Luther King Jr. and Thich Nhat Hanh—icons who changed each other and the world. The book tells how in a short period of time this friendship, between two prophetic figures from different religions and cultures and from countries at war with one another, reached a great depth as the two men bonded over a vision of the Beloved Community.

How Do You See God Manifested in The World?

Nancy Burchett

I see God in just about everything. I don't think of God per se. I see things and think about them, and when I reflect on them, God emerges. Then, I realize God's undergirding of love and strength, compassion and inspiration. I realize that The Holy has been upholding us all these years and will continue to do so, and when I die and enter into God's presence, God will say, "I know you."

Chuck Glass

I think of the many organizations such as Doctors Without Borders, Oxfam, and Heifer International that work to help people throughout the world, and the millions who fund them, as manifestations of God in the world.

The season of Epiphany is when we celebrate the revealing of Christ to the world. We mark the arrival of the One who is the light of the world: a light that brings life, a light that brings hope. This light shines its brightest when we are in community—with God and with one another.

Sheri Grosjean

"As I grow older, I come to value even more your wisdom, honesty, kindness and compassion toward me, your companionship and our talks, and your abiding good will." I recently wrote this birthday message to a dear friend of mine. Upon reflection, I realize that these words often emerge in my prayers of gratitude to God for God's love of me. Clearly, God is manifested in the world in these gifts of friendship.

Savory Pot Roast

By CHARLES COUCH

When I was asked to provide a recipe for The Epistle, I was just then reviewing recipes that didn't include turkey or chicken. This is something Sue liked to do as not "just another pot roast."

Ingredients for 6-8 servings

- 3-pound blade bone pot roast (remove hard fat or use a leaner cut of meat)
- 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
- 1/4 cup cooking oil (if using lean cut of meat, reduce amount and crisp two slices of bacon for browning oil)
- 1/4 cup catsup
- 2 T. soy sauce
- 2 T. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp. dried rosemary, crushed
- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder (I usually cut this in half or add two cloves peeled but whole)
- 1/2 tsp. dry mustard
- 1 dried bay leaf
- Vegetables of choice cut in nearly equal sized pieces

Directions

1. In a large Dutch oven, brown meat slowly in a small amount of oil, or if using a lean cut of meat, chop and crisp two slices of bacon instead of oil. (Remove bacon after crisping.) Meat should be browned on all sides.
2. Sprinkle meat with a small amount of salt.
3. Combine vinegar, oil, catsup, soy sauce, Worcestershire, rosemary, garlic, bay leaf, and mustard; pour over meat.
4. Cover tightly and cook for two hours on simmer or place in a 375 degree oven.
5. The last fifteen minutes, add vegetables of choice, filling the pot, and continue cooking until vegetables are done but still firm and meat is tender.
6. Remove meat and vegetables to a heated plater, discarding garlic cloves and bay leaf. Skim excess fat from sauce; spoon sauce over sliced meat and vegetables.

Note: Leftover meat makes great sandwiches. Also, leftover vegetables blended in a food processor with a small amount of sauce and added beef broth are a great soup to go with the sandwiches. I like to add a few sprigs of fresh rosemary with the vegetables for the fragrance and a slight flavoring. Good Luck!

Somewhere Over the Rainbow? Nope, Right Here!

By LESLIE GLEASON, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, TRINITY CENTER

As a young child, I always looked forward to the annual airing of The Wizard of Oz movie. Beyond the great music and beautiful cinematography, the intertwined themes and characters never failed to fascinate me—I could relate to each one of them in different ways as I grew up and experienced the widening world.

Home, wisdom, emotions, courage—the things the characters sought, only to discover that they had them inside the whole time—the faces of God we see in each other but secretly worry are lacking in ourselves. And yet, wasn't it the case once they each could declare what they were seeking, only then could they step onto the yellow brick road and journey together? And isn't this why we gather in community, on Sundays and everyday—to be honest about what we need, and ask for each other's help in finding it? Isn't this how we become God's heart and hands and smiles in the world? I see God in each person I encounter—from the stranger on the street to the neighbor waving hello, to the people seeking hospitality and hope at Trinity Center, to the "family" we share our lives with. I pray that each of them can see God in me, too—smiling with love and grace from behind my mask—and therefore feel God as close as their own beating heart.

As the movie draws to a close, after what seemed like her only chance to get home has floated away, Dorothy ponders what she has learned from her journey. "If I ever go looking for my heart's desire again, I won't look any further than my own backyard. Because if it isn't there, I never really lost it to begin with! Is that right?" Like Dorothy, I used to think that heaven, God's welcoming home, was somewhere else—separated from my daily life by time and space.

It's taken me over 60 years to realize that it's right here, surrounding us every moment, reaching out in love to and through each of us.

The Rev. Krista Fregoso

In her book, Traveling Mercies, author Anne Lamott writes about the nature of light. She explains that you experience light and don't own it, but you can "gather and shine back. And it gets more power from reflectiveness; if you sit still and take it in, it fills your cup, and then you can give it off yourself." Imagine how we, as Christians, can take part in God's work in the world, experiencing God's light and reflecting that love and light out into the world.

How can we at St. Paul's be part of that reflecting light? What will this new year bring? 2020 and 2021 were both very formative, we leaned into being a church that prays together and stays connected no matter what chaos the world brings. This year we will be leaning into what it means to be a praying community centered around formation and outreach. May St. Paul's be an epicenter of reflectiveness in 2022.

In this new year, may we embrace God's light and shine bright, today, tomorrow, and always.

My Historical Halloween Figure: The Most Rev. Michael Curry

By SAMUEL DESAUTELS, 4TH GRADE

At Sam's school, instead of celebrating Halloween, the students were asked to choose an important figure from history or current events who has contributed to the world in a positive way. In 2021, Sam chose to do his report and presentation about The Most Rev. Michael Curry.

What would you say if you had an opportunity to give a speech that is heard around the world by millions of people? Bishop Michael Curry had that opportunity in 2018 when he gave the sermon at the wedding of Meghan Markle and Prince Harry. He talked about love and peace in his sermon.

Bishop Curry was born in Chicago, Illinois on March 13, 1953. He is a descendant of enslaved Africans and attended a public school in Buffalo, New York. He learned about social activism at a young age. His mother died when he was a young boy. His father was an Episcopal priest. Bishop Curry graduated with high honors from Hobart College in Geneva, New York in 1975. He also received a Master of Divinity degree in 1978 from Yale University Divinity School in New Haven, Connecticut.

Bishop Curry was ordained to the diaconate in June 1978 at St Paul's Cathedral in Buffalo, New York and the priesthood in December 1978 at St. Stephen's Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He was elected to a nine year term, confirmed at the 78th General Convention of the Episcopal Church in Salt Lake City, Utah on June 27, 2015. He was installed November 1, 2015 and is the 27th presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

Bishop Curry is the first Black presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church. He gave the sermon at the marriage of Meghan Markle and Prince Harry. He is married to Sharon Curry (maiden name Clement) and has two daughters Rachel and Elizabeth.

From learning about social activism to being the first Black presiding bishop, Bishop Curry promotes peace, love, and acceptance in his sermons and books.

In Memoriam

God's dream is that you and I and all of us will realize that we are family, that we are made for togetherness, for goodness, and for compassion.

~Archbishop Desmond Tutu, 1931—2021

Vestry Highlights

By JESSICA BEERBAUM

October and November 2021 Meetings

The Rector's Report

The Rev. Krista Fregoso described our 2022 focus on working, praying, and learning together.

- Pray: Return of Joyful Noise and weekly 7:30 am service.
- Learn: New adult formation classes: Sunday in-person at 11:00 am and a Wednesday evening class.
- Work/Outreach: Formation of an Outreach Committee to focus our outreach efforts and increase engagement of our parish and community partners.
- Outreach/Ministry of Space: Recognition of our Ministry of Space which requires our time, talent, and treasure.
- Work: There is an increase in weddings, memorials, and baptisms as the pandemic eases.
- Above all, we emphasize being a church.

Nominating Committee

One person is standing for Vestry from over 20 individuals asked.

Real Estate Committee

- Our meeting rooms at St. Paul's Commons are now being repaired from the fire and water damage last spring.
- A theft and other inappropriate activities have occurred on St. Paul's campus. This may coincide with the opening of Trinity Center's noon meal to all, not only Trinity Center clients. In addition to communicating with Trinity Center staff, the Rector and Real Estate Committee are increasing communication with RCD, the management company for the Commons housing; the Walnut Creek police department; and the Walnut Creek City Council in order to increase security. Any suspicious activity should be reported via the police department's digital reporting system.
- The Vestry approved the hiring of a security service.
- The Vestry passed a motion to have the Real Estate Committee authorize the Walnut Creek police department to enter church grounds with the purpose of investigating possible illegal activity and other problems.
- The Vestry reviewed a letter to Trinity Center outlining areas of needed improvement on the part of Trinity Center, as St. Paul's continues to support its ministry to those experiencing homelessness.

2022 Budget Discussion

The Rector stated that in light of St. Paul's complicated real estate situation, a strong business administrator is needed. This is an unforeseen expense in the building of St. Paul's Commons and of being in a lease relationship with Trinity Center. This need contributes to a projected 2022 budget deficit. The Vestry is exploring ways to address the deficit and prepare a more attainable budget for discussion and vote at the next Vestry meeting.

Now, most weeks have related art that enhances the experience and deepens our understanding. Often, there is more than one piece of art, allowing the comparison of interpretations of a passage. Artists over the centuries tend to depict the passages in the style of their time, illustrating how people internalize the Biblical messages. Exploring that theme weekly adds to our own connection to God's changelessness and Jesus' message. The timelessness of the Bible relates to all eras of human history. Rev. Laurie has since retired, but the group lives on. We have been led by Rev. Lynne Sharp, our new Associate Rector, and are currently led by our Rector, Rev. Krista Fregoso.

St. Paul's Vision Statement

At St. Paul's, as followers of Jesus Christ, we envision a church that provides and supports a loving community of faith: with our church, with one another, and with our world,
Where all are welcome, no matter where they are on their spiritual journey,
Where activities, events, and opportunities support spiritual growth for people of all ages and diversities through worship, education, and service,
Where we use our God-given talents, time, and treasure to lift the less fortunate and the vulnerable.
May we all support each other in remembering and creating this vision, not just in the hours we spend on campus, but during our daily lives, as we interact with friends and neighbors, and as we act as members of our wider communities.

Happy 100th Birthday, Tat Welcome!

Dear Friends at St. Paul's

Your beautiful expressions of congratulations and love have been so magnanimous. These outpourings have touched me deeply and I feel so blessed to be a member of this caring community. Thank you all for acknowledging my 100th birthday in such meaningful and innovative ways. My appreciation is deep and I shall feast on the memories forever.

With love to all, Tat

Like the Murmur of the Dove's Song

Like the murmur of the dove's song,
like the challenge of her flight,
like the vigor of the wind's rush,
like the new flame's eager might:
come, Holy Spirit, come.

To the members of Christ's Body,
to the branches of the Vine,
to the Church in faith assembled,
to her midst as gift and sign:
come, Holy Spirit, come.

With the healing of division,
with the ceaseless voice of prayer,
with the power of love and witness,
with the peace beyond compare:
come, Holy Spirit, come.
